eCampus User Roles

Student
Student is the default course user role. A user with the role of Student has no access to the course Control Panel.

Instructor
Instructors have full access to the course Control Panel. This role is generally assigned to the person developing, teaching, or facilitating the class. If a course is unavailable to students, users with the Instructor role may still access it. The instructor is included in the course description in the Course Catalog. Instructors cannot remove anyone from the course since we get the enrollments from STAR.

Teaching Assistant
Users with the Teaching Assistant role have access to most of the course Control Panel. If the course is unavailable to students, teaching assistants may still access the course. The teaching assistant is not included in the course description in the Course Catalog. Teaching assistants cannot remove anyone from a course. Instructors who need the teaching assistant enrolled in the course should go to eRS and request the TA to be enrolled in their course.

Course Builder
The Course Builder role has access to most areas of the course or organization Control Panel. This role is appropriate for an assistant who should not have access to student grades. If the course is unavailable to students, a course builder can still access the course. The course builder cannot remove an instructor or students from a course.

Auditor
There is no auditor role in the new system. However, if you need to enroll a student for incompletes, please go to eRS and request the student to be enrolled as a student until the Auditor role becomes available.
